Stewardship Reflection

"Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them and they all drank from it." – MARK 14:23

Jesus, the perfect steward, gave thanks, just before He gave Himself to us completely for our salvation. He offers us the chance to drink from His cup. In the Eucharist, we meet Christ personally and, if we listen to Him, we know what drinking from His cup means our own sacrifice – giving up some of our time, talent and treasure to do His work on earth.

CATHOLIC MYTHS DISPELLED

Pagan-style practices

Myth: Catholicism is no better than paganism.

Reality: People who don't know their facts see Catholics wearing religious medals or praying with rosary beads, see statues with candles burning before them or incense rising from the altar and think, as one anti-Catholic website puts it, that Catholicism is nothing more than "paganism clothed in Christian veneer." Many of the things that non-Catholics think of as "pagan" are in reality sacramentals and devotions designed to help us humans make a connection to the Divine. They have nothing to do with idol worship or magic and everything to do with growing in faith. Put it this way, it's a pretty big leap from earth to heaven; having sacred signs — holy water, relics, stained-glass windows — open the door a bit to the graces we receive through the sacraments themselves. Sacramentals are add-ons. The beads and candles, flowers and holy vessels are not the focus of faith but the things that give us physical ways to express our faith, deepen our faith and live our faith day by day.
