Stewardship Reflection

"For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, so that each one may receive good or evil, according to what he has done in the body." – 2 CORINTHIANS 5:10

We are all accountable for the gifts God has given us – our time, our talent and our treasure. Each of us is accountable not only for our own life but for the lives of others as well. One day God will ask each of us what did we do with the gifts we were given. How will you respond?

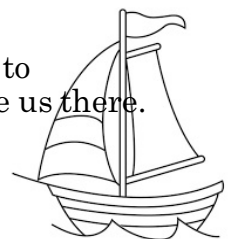

CATHOLIC MYTHS DISPELLED

Infallibility

Myth: Catholics believe that the pope cannot sin and can never be wrong.

Reality: Infallibility can get complicated. It does not refer to an inability to sin. It does not refer to some sort of magical mumbo jumbo that makes the pope's words irrefutable. In fact, no human being can be completely infallible; only God is infallible. The pope exercises infallibility when he applies the gift of the Holy Spirit to the Church's teachings on faith and morals. Not only does the pope exercise infallibility, but, the Second Vatican Council recognized that bishops, when acting in unity with the pope, also may exercise infallibility, either in their own dioceses when promulgating a teaching on faith or morals, or when the bishops act together as part of an ecumenical council. Within the category of infallibility, theologians talk about two classifications: "primary" objects and "secondary" objects. Primary objects of infallibility include anything regarding Church teaching that is revealed by God and pertains to salvation, such as the declaration in 1950 that Mary's assumption into heaven is an article of faith. Secondary objects of infallibility would include things like canonizations or approval of religious orders.
